What is invisibility?
An object is invisible if what lies behind the object is clearly visible without distortion.

It can all be done by mirrors: the magician’s way, or with an imaging fiber bundle.

Transformative optics: Make electromagnetic waves flow around an object as if it were not there.

Research supported by NSF and BAE Systems